CRUMBLETHON 2019

Thank you very much Crumblemakers of Graffham! 26 delicious crumbles were delivered by us to Stonepillow in Chichester on Tuesday 24th September. Those who use the hostel are encouraged to do the cooking themselves and, as there were no home made puddings in the freezer until we arrived with ours, they were received with great enthusiasm. Many thanks to you all for your cooking efforts. Jan Brind and Ann Brown

We enjoyed a lovely concert at St Giles last month. Folk group Cotillion entertained us with local songs and music reflecting on the horse's contribution to agriculture, with delicious food and mulled cider contributing to our enjoyment; a big thank you to everyone who came or contributed to the occasion raising much needed funding for our parish as well.

Turning to preparations for the special occasions of November and December, all are welcome to attend our All Souls' Service on 3rd November at 3pm. This provides an opportunity to remember and give thanks for dear ones no longer with us, and is followed by refreshments in the bell tower.

Please see our notices in this magazine for Remembrance observation this year, marking the 75th anniversary of the events of D day in WWII, including the Normandy landings and holding of Pegasus Bridge. You are encouraged to attend any of the services offered, as a mark of respect for those who suffered or died in conflict from this village and beyond.

Into December, our Christmas Fair at the Empire Hall on Saturday 7th December is taking shape and we look forward to a great day of fun and enjoyment. Thank you to Phil and Caroline and to everyone working hard to make this the best fair yet.

Please also see our notices in this magazine for special services for Advent and Christmas, to note in your diaries. I'd like to take this early opportunity however, to announce the introduction of:

The Graffham Nativity...

...This will take place on Sunday 22nd December at 4pm. It is a recounting of the Christmas Story both around and within St Giles Church, with drama and carols, in which everyone is invited to take part. Children and adults alike are invited to come dressed in character if you can, as angels, shepherds, animals or kings... Do come along and experience this wonderful story together, and celebrate the birth of the Christ-Child, in our village. Every blessing, Reverend Vivien

Shakespeare's Starlings: A Three Act Tragedy

Hey y'all, I'm mailing in this month's parish magazine article from my vacation at Bodega Bay on the foggy Pacific coast of California. It may be all organic coffee, surfer dudes and healing crystals but this quaint coastal community is notorious for being the location for a most sinister film: 'The Birds' (1963). Alfred Hitchcock has long gone but flocks of the film's stars still sit ominously perched on telegraph wires as if unaware that the portly director yelled 'cut' 56 years ago. But unlike the local hummingbirds, phoebes and chickadees, these particular birds look reassuringly familiar to me. They are Sturnus vulgaris, the European Starling, the same species we see wheeling around Brighton's West Pier in their dramatic amoeboid murmurations. And, like me, they don't really belong here. These Starlings are here thanks to Henry IV. Well, 'Henry IV Part 1' to be precise.

Act I: London, 1597. William Shakespeare scribbles the word 'Starling' in his epic tale of power and treachery. With that feathered flourish of his quill Shakespeare would unknowingly be the author of an ecological catastrophe that would play out until the present day.

Act II: New York, 1877. Enter stage right Eugene Schieffelin, a socialite who would later be remembered as 'an eccentric at best, a lunatic at worst'. He chaired the American Acclimatization Society, a group which, despite their nationalistic sounding name, were very keen to welcome foreigners. In fact their aim was to import animals of economic or cultural interest from the Old World to the New. Schieffelin, a big fan of Shakespeare, had a dream: to populate America with every bird mentioned in Shakespeare's writings. And so the bard's birds were boxed up in England and brought to New York where Skylarks, Pied Wagtails, Bullfinches, Nightingales, Chaffinches and many more were 'liberated' into Central Park. The majority of them died. But on March 6, 1890, 60 Starlings (a bird mentioned only once by Shakespeare) were released in Central Park and these few dozen reluctant immigrants fared better. Much better. Today there are around 200 million of them across the United States.

Act III: United States, present day. The story of Schieffelin's Shakespearian motivation may just be an urban legend but the legacy of his misguided American Acclimatization Society is very real. Today European Starlings are widely vilified by Americans as aggressive pests that have destroyed precious ecosystems and turfed out native species. Which is pretty rich coming from a bunch of invasive Europeans who have been doing just that for the past few centuries. And don't start me on their current leader – a lunatic at best – who is busy dismantling environmental regulations that protect wildlife, the landscape and our planet. But sure, let's blame our problems on the birds. As Mr Shakespeare (almost) once wrote, "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our Starlings, But in ourselves".

Thursday Club

We regret the meeting on 10th October was cancelled. Just before he was due to come to Graffham the speaker received an emergency call and had to take his father into hospital. He offered his apologies at such short notice and we were obliged to cancel the meeting.

Under the title 'Look Up to Fun', Joe Whicher is our guest speaker in November. His subject, which is illustrated, is PUB SIGNS. We look forward to hearing about this unusual topic and would enjoy the pleasure of your company in the Empire Hall on Thursday, 14th November at 2.30pm.

For the following month, we have made provisional arrangements to have our Christmas lunch at The Greyhound on the Midhurst Road. We have made the booking for Thursday 12th December. At the November meeting you will have the opportunity to make your menu selection. It would be much appreciated if at the same time payment can be made of £20 per head (for two courses plus coffee).

May we also ask for the £12 annual subscription, due last month. Thank you.

How to reduce your carbon footprint and protect the planet

There is plenty we can all do as individuals to reduce our carbon footprints and work towards reversing the effects of climate change. Over the next few issues I'm going to share some simple solutions to help you. This month we're focussing on water.

Conserve water and protect our waterways:

Our oceans provide us with 70% of the oxygen we breathe, they regulate temperature and three billion people rely on them for food. Protecting and conserving them is vital to the health of us and the planet.

With ice melting at the poles, carbon dioxide making seawater acidic (bleaching coral reefs which destroys whole ecosystems), overfishing, fertilisers and sewage washing in from farmland and enormous amounts of plastic, the oceans and marine life are in dire straits.

Here are a few ways to help conserve water and protect our waterways:

- When brushing your teeth, turn off the tap while you lather up. Only turn it on when it's time to rinse your mouth out.
- Take shorter showers. A fun way to do this is by listening to a 5-10 minute song, then shut the shower off when it's over.
- Don't flush things down the toilet to dispose of them. One flush can waste up to 5-7 gallons of water.
- Avoid dish/body soaps filled with toxins and microbeads. Conventional dish and body soap contain ingredients that go down the drain and only further pollute our water supply. Microbeads are tiny pieces of plastic used as an exfoliator in cosmetics, which eventually make their way to the sea and are eaten by marine life. Make the switch to all-natural, eco-friendly soap.
- Host or join a waterway cleanup in your local community. Keep those waters plastic free.
- Opt for reusables. Lots of disposable items take gallons of water to make. For example, one roll of toilet paper takes 37 gallons of water; A single disposable nappy takes 144 gallons of water. There are several other products, like paper plates, cups and towels, that need gallons of water to make as well. That's why switching to reusables will help you save water in the long run.
- Use rainwater to water your garden. Set up some water barrels to collect rain from your roofs, instead of using mains water.

Graffham Tennis Club – Review of 2019

As warm memories of our all action Tennis Week faded into the chill of oncoming Autumn days, our attentions were drawn to our prize giving evening to reward those who claimed top honours in our Annual Tournament and the recognition of some East Hants League achievements.

Thirty or so members gathered in the pavilion to enjoy a relaxing social evening, enjoying some excellent food produced by those present, and sinking a bevy or two!

Chairman Beetle Clay and Mike Dimmer presented the trophies, and the winner's are highlighted with some appropriate comments.

Men's A Singles – Ollie Sanders after many excellent efforts in defeat finally laid the hoodoo, and ended the long domination of Andy Major. This high quality match sadly watched by just a few went to Ollie 7-6 6-4.

Ladies Singles – Kate Hogan has been a long time in taking this title but deservedly got her name on the 56 year old cup, which remains in splendid condition despite spending around a third of its life in the loft of the late Dick Challen who did so much for our village.

Men's A Doubles – not competed for this year. Where were you chaps?? Men's B Doubles – Richard Gyles and Brett Creed set an example to the As, but we will spare them promotion in case there's no opposition?

Ladies A Doubles – Emma Amin and Sian Green are standing dishes in this event and have had a great year.

Ladies B Doubles – Philippa Sanders and Angie Thornley, a couple of evergreens adorning the history of our Club.

Mixed Doubles – Andy Craig and Emma Amin have formed a fine doubles duo!

Senior Mixed Doubles – Tim and Jo Crow, long standing members, were popular winners of this inaugural event.

Boys' Singles – Joseph Steyn aged 13 landed the Sutton Cup as this event was reinstated after three years in the tennis wilderness! Sadly Joseph was not present to receive his trophy, but I'm sure he will be back next year to defend his title!

We have Philippa Sanders to thank for getting this event off the ground and with some assistance from Richard Hopp, our excellent Coach, we hope to encourage more juniors, Girls and Boys, to compete in these Singles events next year.

The awards for most Improved Players went to the Juniors Maisie Amin and Arya Jeeva. Well done to them! The East Hants League season brought mixed fortunes. Our Mixed Doubles squad gained the highest league position by coming third in Division 2. However, the most meritorious achievement was gained by our Ladies A team in avoiding relegation from the high quality Division 1. They produced some excellent end of season performances to finish 4th of the six teams.

Our Ladies B squad avoided relegation from Division 3 by one point after a technicality, which brought heavy sighs of relief! Less good fortune for the Men's squad who look destined for the drop to the bottom Division, although again technicalities could bring about a late change??

The Trophy for East Hants League Ladies Player of the Year went to Emma Amin whose tennis goes from strength to strength. Andy Major whose long standing support of our Club is most valued, received the Trophy for Men's Player of the Year.

Talking of excellence within our Club, I must conclude with a most deserved tribute to Dinah Lamming who introduced League Tennis into our ranks in 2009, and after 10 years of super efficient administration and organising she is now stepping down to concentrate more on playing!

Considerable thanks is extended to Dinah on behalf of the membership, and from a personal angle it has been a great pleasure to have worked with her during this dazzling decade! Kate Hogan and the Team captains will continue the great work and a glass or two will be raised in Dinah's honour! Mike Dimmer

A sermon preached on the day the Anglican Church commemorates John Henry Newman.

Imagine going into a parish church during the early years of the 19th century. It would probably give the impression it was furnished for preaching, being dominated by a large pulpit, perhaps with two lower levels, with high sided box-pews and little floor space. At the east end there may be a small, dark wooden table, covered in dust with nothing placed on it, or a plain table in the chancel. Communion would usually be celebrated three or four times a year but few of the church members would feel the need to be present. Many buildings seemed neglected or were in need of repair.

Edward Ellman, who heard Newman preach in Oxford in the 1830s, was Rector of Berwick in W. Sussex for 60 years. He recalled how services were slovenly taken", and "Anything in the shape or form of ceremony was avoided as much as possible and regarded as 'popish'. The services were long, the sermons very dry, and as a rule above the understanding certainly of the working classes." Flowers, candles and a cross were also dismissed as being 'popish'. There were no organs in churches; in rural churches singing was accompanied by a motley collection of instruments in a gallery at the west end. Clergy were all Oxbridge educated, their degree not necessarily theology. There were no theological colleges.

From the 1840s onwards the interior of many churches and the worship within were changing. This was largely the result of ripple effect of the Oxford Movement, named after the university where the catholic revival in the Anglican Church started, or Tractarianism, as it is sometimes called, due to the pamphlets that some of its early leaders wrote. Tractarians felt that the church had forgotten its deep roots in the centuries before the Protestant Reformation in the 16th century, reaching through the Middle Ages and to the early centuries, the formative period for Christian doctrine. This theological awakening was expressed through spirituality, teaching, preaching, liturgy, especially the central place for the Eucharist in the life of the Church, and in the furnishing of churches.

This church reflects that movement. A plain, little-used table is now an altar, the focal point in the building, with frontal, white cloth and candles. It's used every Sunday with the Eucharist celebrated with reverence and dignity. There is an organ and choir stalls for a robed choir, a smaller pulpit and a sense of space with low-backed pews. The church is built in the Gothic style, the one preferred by the Tractarians.

Now we turn to John Henry Newman. He was one of three influential leaders of the Oxford Movement until becoming a Roman Catholic in 1845 after a long interior struggle. John Keble and Edward Pusey, all Oxford man, were the others. Newman's life was a long, searching, spiritual journey, not without disappointment, controversy and strained relationships. His life spanned the greater part of the 19th century. He was born into a well-to-do family in the City of London in 1801 and died on this day in 1890.

The family had a second home in Ham, then in the country. His father hit hard times and this house was sold. A few years later Newman returned to it with his father and one of his brothers. A gardener gave them three apricots and young John was invited to choose one. Forty years later Newman, recalling this incident, wrote a letter to a friend saying "I took the largest, a thing which distresses me whenever I think of it." The friend was Henry Wilberforce, Son of Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Oxford, and grandson of William Wilberforce, the anti-slavery campaigner. Samuel's wife, Emily, inherited Lavington.

As you know, this church was built as a memorial to Samuel Wilberforce, the architect, Street, being a Tractarian. Henry Wilberforce was the brotherin-law of Henry Manning, curate and then incumbent of these two parishes. George and Henry's wives were daughters of John Sergent, for whom Manning was the curate. Manning founded at Chichester Theological College in 1840 the first Anglican theological college, a fruit of the Oxford Movement. Following the death of Caroline, Manning's wife, in 1837, he was received in to the Roman Catholic Church and subsequently Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster.

To return to Newman. He was brought up in a devout Anglican family. Aged 15, while a pupil at Great Ealing School, he had an inner evangelical conversion experience. He showed great academic promise but only managed to get a pass degree at Oxford where he discovered the stirrings of the Catholic revival. No longer able to follow a legal career he decided to be ordained; in 1824 a deacon and a priest the following year. Despite his poor degree, his intellectual ability was recognised and he became a Fellow of the prestigious Oriel College.

Aged 27 he was appointed Vicar of the University Church of St Mary where he exercised enormous influence over both his parishioners and undergraduates, especially through his preaching. Keble was invited to preach an Assize Sermon and chose to criticise the government for abolishing 10 Irish bishoprics. It was not the need to do so but the fact the government was taking this action that he objected to. At stake was the very nature of the Church. This marked the beginning of the Oxford Movement.

Newman's spiritual journey continued, wrestling to discern the true expression of the Christian faith. From affirming the essential catholicity of the Anglican Church and its continuity with the pre-Reformation Church he came to see that the fullness of the faith was found in the Roman Catholic Church. Finally after a long interior struggle, on October 9th 1845 he was received into the Roman Catholic Church. It was a painful decision and he spoke emotionally of the "parting of friends".

Two years later in Rome he was ordained priest, becoming an Oratorian, belonging to an order of priests who lived in community, attached to parish churches. He established an English branch of the Oratory in a poor district in Birmingham. He worked tirelessly for all but the remaining 36 years of his life, preaching, teaching, writing and ministering as a parish priest, with seven years as Rector of a Catholic university in Ireland. At the age of 78 the Pope honoured him by making in a cardinal. On October 13th he will be officially declared a saint.

Today we remember John Henry Newman and recall the Oxford Movement in this Tractarian church, heirs of that catholic revival. Here we celebrate the Eucharist every Sunday, with reverence and dignity, the priest robed in vestments, candles burning on the altar, conscious of the communion of saints, with all who have gone before us in the way of faith, including John Henry Newman.

John Bundock

His faith and character are expressed in this prayer he wrote:

Dear Jesus, help us to spread your fragrance everywhere we go. Flood our souls with your spirit and life. Penetrate and possess our whole being so utterly, that our lives may only be a radiance of yours. Shine through us, and be so in us, that every person we should come in contact with may feel your presence in our soul. Let them look up and see no longer us, but only Jesus. Stay with us, and then we shall begin to shine as you shine; so to shine as to be a light to others; the light, Jesus, will be all from you. None of it will be ours. It will be you shining on others through us. Let us thus praise you in the way you love best, by shining on those around us. Let us preach you without preaching: not by words, but by our example, by the catching force, the sympathetic influence of what we do, the evident fullness of the love our hearts bear for you. Amen. 26

Katherine Maud Guiilod Fund

The Graffham Parish Councillors are all individually Trustees of The Katherine Maud Guillod Fund which is a charitable trust set up in 1925 for the benefit of the local area. In accordance with the terms of the trust, the income is distributed each year as follows: 50% goes to the Graffham Health Support Association, 25% to the Thursday Club and 25% remains for distribution at the discretion of the Parish Council for charitable grants to persons or institutions connected with the village.

The trust documents state that the remaining 25% may be distributed by GPC as it may decide but, it is desired, that principally in mind should be the preservation and upkeep of footpaths within the Parish and the assistance of pupils of Graffham School who may obtain scholarships for study at other schools or colleges.

In the year to 31st March 2019, the surplus of receipts over payments totalled £534 and it is anticipated that funds to be used at the discretion of the Council in 2019-20 will be similar. The Council would welcome applications for appropriate grant funding. Any submissions would then be considered at a forthcoming

KMG Fund Meeting. Please submit any application to the Clerk at the contact details below.
